

Problem Statement

College students are often found struggling to maintain a healthy diet due to poor budgeting skills and a lack of culinary knowledge.

Details:

Students are subject to the convenience of fast food and processed meals which leads to poor nutrition among them. Poor nutrition can negatively affect their physical health and academic performance. It becomes especially difficult to prioritize healthy eating habits when combined with busy schedules.